Co-Parenting Seminar Registration Form

Divorce is hard on kids. We can help you make it easier. This educational program helps parents make the transition a little easier for the whole family.

Class Concepts:

1. Divorce is a change in a family, not an end to the family.
2. Children's ages and needs are the first consideration in making family decisions.
3. The family lifestyle as the child sees and experiences it impacts adjustment.
4. Ages and stages in a child's development determine appropriate parenting activities, explanations and family lifestyles that meet children's emotional, educational, social, physical and spiritual needs.
5. Co-parenting is a lifelong process.
6. Stress, change stages of divorce and stages of grief impact children and families. Good management techniques strengthen children and the family.
7. Children and families need continuing services.

Co-Parenting is a research-based educational seminar developed by the OSU Cooperative Extension Service and is made available locally through the voluntary cooperation of trained staff from the following organizations:

Delaware Child Care Resource and Referral
Kay County Health Department
Kay County OSU Cooperative Extension Service
Northern Oklahoma Youth Shelter
Pioneer Technology Center Staff
Public School Staff
